Guest Lecture on Relevance of Sociology for Civil Service examination

Department of Sociology organised a Guest lecture on June 29, 2017 between 1.40 pm and 2.35 pm in main Auditorium. It was a felt need that we encourage our students to prepare for competitive exams and especially in civil service exams. We were fortunate enough to have Ms Sumana Bolar speaking on the topic "Relevance of Sociology for Civil Service examination." She motivated our students to be passionate about what they study. She instilled confidence among the students by encouraging them to utilise the discipline of Sociology to their advantage as one of the papers for competitive exams and not to yield the turf to others. She proposed some valuable tips in preparing for the exams and to get rid of some myths on writing the competitive exams. Moreover through her own experience while writing the exam or facing the interview she tried to diffuse the tension that might surround the students.

Over 150 students from the department of Sociology as well as from other departments made this event special. Ms Prema D'Souza, HOD Department of Sociology, Fr Alphonse Fernandes SJ, Campus Minister, Dr Rose Veera and Dr Joyce Lobo from the Department of Political Science were present for the occasion.

Congratulatory Letter to the new Attorney General of India

15-08-2017

K.K.Venugopal
Attorney General of India
Government of India
New Delhi

Dear Sir,

Please accept our heartiest congratulations on assuming the role of Attorney General of India. Please bear with us for the delay as I was abroad for some time.

St Aloysius College is very happy for your outstanding achievement and we expressed our happiness by sharing the information with the students and also by issuing press statement to the general public. Being a legal luminary, you have made your Alma mater very proud by rising to the position of eminence.

We are also delighted to know that you were awarded Padma Bhushan and Padma Vibhushan, civilian honour of the country.

St Aloysius College conferred "Eminent Aloysian" award to you in 2011.

Your achievements will go in to the record books of St Aloysius as an outstanding alumnus.

It is bit embarrassing to ask you about the course and the year of your studies at St Aloysius College as we have not been able to get specific records. Would you kindly share the information.

St Aloysius College will consider it a great privilege if you could kindly visit the college and address the staff and students at your convenience. We would be very happy if you can deliver the graduation day address sometime in the month of May/June 2018. We will try to contact you through your office.

We will appreciate if you could please acknowledge.

Yours Sincerely

Rev. Fr Praveen Martis

Research Interaction Series

July 07, 2017 - Topic: "A Study on Competency mapping with special reference to the employees of Big Bazaar, Mangalore."

Resource Person: Mr Royce Baretto (Faculty member, Department of MBA)

The researcher began the session by giving an introduction to the topic, where he explained the relevance of competency mapping for retail sector. He held that the basic problem in the retail sector was that they do not focus on recruitment to fill the "Right Person to the Right Job" rather focus was on "Filling the Gap". Another aspect of study emphasized the need to remove the sole focus on numerical goals for performance assessment.

The researcher identified a solution by linking Competency Mapping to the organizational objectives and tried to find the best match between them and use this mapping for majority of organizational people assessment.

The findings were as follows:

62% of the total employees possess good skills in different dimensions.

2. There is lack of commitment among the employees as the attrition rate is around 30%,

3. Process oriented was the highly identified skill whereas execution skill was the lowest.

4. The overall skill result is that majority are of indifferent level in the employees.

The suggestions given by researcher are:

- a) Design a training program
- b) Know your employee
- c) Achievement orientation
- d) Performance management system (PMS)

He maintained that further periodic research would be done on the same set of employees to know the difference in their performance level. Thematic appreciation test could be applied for better research analysis and output.

A lot of suggestions were given by the attendees to improve the quality of research.

July 12, 2017 - Topic: Sampling Design & Determination of Sample Size

Resource Person: Ms Sumita Achar (Dept. of MBA)

A common goal of survey research is to collect data representative of a population. The researcher uses information gathered from the survey to generalize findings from a drawn sample back to a population, within the limits of random error. Within a quantitative survey design, sampling design techniques, determining sample size and dealing with nonresponse bias is essential. Inappropriate, inadequate, or excessive sample sizes continue to influence the quality and accuracy of research. Thus determination of sample size is a common task for many organizational researchers. The researcher in an interesting interactive session detailed the procedures involved and educated the faculty members on the nuances of research

July 12, 2017 - Topic: A Study on Recruitment and Selection Process at Arnold Consultancy-A need of the hour for Organizational Success

Resource Person: Mr. Lestan D'Souza (Faculty member, Department of MBA)

The researcher gave a basic overview on Recruitment and Selection process. The researcher highlighted the adage, "One wrong decision and the whole purpose become inefficacious". Recruitment and selection, often termed as talent acquisition in many companies is at the heart of business success and growth. The researcher added that recruiting and selection of candidates is more often than not done on fallacious beliefs such as unbiased compensation, personal favors, blandish advertisements and this he maintained, distresses not only the applicants but also overall employee attitude and morale, hampers market image, affects attrition and retention rates. The he declared was the rationale behind the selection of the research topic.

Declaring that effective human resource management is the backbone of any organization, the researcher concluded that extreme steps should be taken to implement befitting recruitment and selection policies, and majorly access desired competencies for surpassed performance results.

A lot of suggestions were given by the attendees to improve the quality of research.

Research Interaction Series ...

July 19, 2017 - A Study on Executive burnout in selected profit and nonprofit organizations in Karnataka
Resource Person: Dr Theresa Nazareth (Dept. of MBA)
The researcher gave a brief summary of her research thesis describing stress and burnout, and highlighting stress factors which affect individuals, organizations, the environment, family and society in general. Coping strategies were also referred to with emphasis on the Stress Management Framework Model. Areas of further research were identified.
A lot of suggestions were given by the attendees to improve the quality of research.

July 19, 2017 - Objective wise analysis and method of analyzing ranking scales using Garret Mean Scores
Resource Person: Ms Sumita Achar (Dept. of MBA)
Research Interaction Series on the above topic focused on Objective wise analysis and method of analyzing ranking scales using Garret Mean Scores. A discussion continued with illustration of sample size formulas, including the formula for adjusting the sample size for smaller populations. Procedures for determining the appropriate sample size for multiple regression and factor analysis, and common issues in sample size determination were also discussed. The researcher in an interesting interactive session detailed the procedures involved and educated the faculty members on the nuances of research.
